

TEDDIES THAT POP-UP, WIGGLE AND SLIDE: AN INTRODUCTION TO TOY AND MOVABLE BOOKS

By Susan Quinlan, Susan Quinlan Doll & Teddy Bear Museum & Library

*Within this book, my own dear child,
Are various pictures gay,
Their limbs they move with gestures wild,
as with them you do play.
But still they are of paper made,
And therefore, I advise,
That care and Caution should be paid,
Lest Woe and Grief arise;
Both you and pictures then would cry
To see what harm is done,
And sigh would follow after sigh
Because you've spoilt your fun.
Lothar Meggendorfer, "Always Jolly"*

Some web sites with interesting information

For history of the pop-up, the Gustine Courson Weaver Collection at the University of North Texas Libraries has an excellent web site which includes images of the books, some of which are animated (i.e. Dean and Son, French movables) www.library.unt.edu/rarebooks/exhibits/popup2/introduction.htm.

Also an exhibit called The Great Menagerie: The wonderful world of pop-up and movable books 1811 - 1996. <http://www.library.unt.edu/rarebooks/exhibits/popup/main.htm>

University of Virginia. Brenda Forman Collection. Exhibit called "Pop goes the page" Has illustrations which can be rotated. www.lib.virginia.edu/small/exhibits/popup/ Shows pictures which can be rotated.

Broward County Library's Bienes Center has an online exhibit of the collection donated by Geraldine Roberts Lebowitz. www.broward.org/library/bienes/lii13900.htm

ARTICLE

Taylor, Rhonda Harris and Nancy Larsen Bluemel. Pop-up books: an introductory guide. Collection Building 22:1, 2003, pp. 21-32. An excellent introduction to pop-ups with a listing of resources under categories such as history, reviews, paper engineers, pop-up producers, collecting, and how to make pop-ups. This is especially interesting for those who have a collection and wish to know more about how to organize it and where to find more information about the books, authors, illustrators, and engineers. It is written by two librarians.
